

ABSTRACT

A set of playing pieces for a game of jacks or the like, wherein each playing piece is in the form of a multi-point jack having portions defining at least four extremities spaced at least approximately equi-angularly about, and at at least approximately the same distance from a central core. The extremities allow tripodal support of the multi-point jack on the flat surface in different orientations. The playing piece is in the form of a figurine and at least some of said extremity-defining portions are differently shaped.